ALL enduring and worth-while projects should find their justfiication in the need that brings them into existence. Their usefulness and value are clearly indicated according to the degree of service which they render in advancing the best interests of those concerned.

It is our hope that this issue of our yearbook may be the means of a further realization of worthy accomplishment, and one of the rungs in our ladder of progress.

The special theme of this issue is "Candid Camera Shots." It is the wish of the editors to present to our readers pictures of our real selves in a number of our activities, all of which are essential to school life. Such pictures should show purposeful activity without any camouflage or special treatment to reveal anything other than the original.

Perhaps from this timely subject we may appreciate more fully the value of forming our habits so successfully that our consciences will always be clean and clear, and that the candid camera will present pictures that will be pleasing to others and satisfying to ourselves. May these pictures be so valuable that we may refer to them now and always as a source of inspiration and value throughout our lives.

Our congratulations are hereby extended to those responsible for its publication.

James T. Collins, Principal

Foreword

In an effort to portray more adequately the year's activities at North Quiney High School, the Manet for 1939 has been developed along the increasingly interesting note of the candid eamera. It is the hope of the staff that all innovations have been made in good taste and that dignity has not been sacrificed in the endeavor to make this year's volume a more interesting and more faithful retrospect of life at North Quiney High School in the year that has passed.

ODE

When yet unfathomed Time has had its way
And days of youth has snatched from out our grasp,
Then these let us remember: zest in play
And work, our present joy and future hope
Unstained as yet by doubt, and laughter gay
Concealing petty selfishness and pain
That pass, but leave their imprint, 'neath the sway
Of blithe Euphrosyne, who rules in youth.

But not with mocking jest of heart grown dry,
Nor bitterness of disillusionment—
Let higher worth in recollection lie,
That we, with thought of glorious past intent
And confidence, a golden gage may see—
A stirring challenge to ourselves to be.

Marion Mainwaring

REMEMBER WHEN

Seventh Grade—That was the year the seventh grade was boarded out to any grammar school that would give them school room. We worked up an appetite every noon tramping over the hill to the cafeteria. The hours we spent in the shops and sewing rooms according to sex made us feel like the country mouse come to visit his city cousin. In the grammar school we were somebody, for we went to Junior High, but here in this huge community we were small fry. To the members of the traffic squad we were that paradox which must not only be ignored but also be kept in line and prevented from sliding down the banisters.

However, we had our big moments. Remember the Junior Carnival? Ah! Now there was a whirl of abandoned gaiety and all for one quarter of a dollar—"Ladies and gentlemen, moom' pitchers, basketball, amateur show, with an evening of dancing to the tripping strains of the Trust-Busters."

The novelty of going to Junior High had only begun to pall when we found that it was really time to become a loose screw in an educational machine, for the eighth grade was near at hand.

Eighth Grade—Remember the thrill of taking your rightful place in the complex scheme of things academic and unacademic? Here we first encountered Vocational Guidance in its most pernicious form, Vocational Civics. Just as the conjuror says, "Pick a card, any card," so the instructor said to us, "Pick a vocation." Every girl was going to be a career woman, a stylist, an interior decorator, just as all the boys were to build the Boulder Dams and the Golden Gate bridge spans of the future, sit on the Supreme Court, or be G Men. We watched endless movies of other people at work, striking oil wells, making matches from California redwoods, balancing the national budget, or collecting the municipal garbage. We were initiated into the mysteries of simple and not so simple interest; we computed endless examples in which we were shown how to determine the amount to which a principal of $1.98 at a scandalous rate of interest would amount to by the time we were 99.44 years old. After we had figured for three weeks, our benefactors showed us how to use a compound interest table which we promptly forgot how to use and had to be instructed in again in Math Review. Later they tried to soften the blow of ninth-grade algebra by perplexing us with problems concerning A, B, and c (he was the little boy) and n eggs. However, like most good intentions they only paved the way to . . . the ninth grade.

Ninth Grade—Now we were somebody (at least we thought so) for we organized our class and ran our own gala affairs. Having learned how to balance the budget according to the laws of supply and demand, diminishing returns, and other erudite complexities in Economic Civics, we were privileged to see if we could make the outcome match the income. The duly elected officers found that in order to have a class dance they must first teach the class to dance. So the afternoon dancing classes came into being. The fox-trot and the waltz were still the dances for the ballroom, and lessons in these Terpsichorean feats alternated with discourses on the social etiquette of gum-chewing. There was a Spring Dance as a preliminary to the Prom in June. Contrary to the misconception of the present generation the now hoary-headed seniors did not dance in crinoline and canary yellow waistcoats but in conventional organdy, white flannels and blue coats.

This is the year we chose our respective courses for better or for worse. Some of us had a taste of Latin and the usual dose of Grammar and Literature spoon-fed, but all too soon we were to find out how wearing a steady diet of such fare can be in the years to come.

Tenth Grade—Now things began to be nasty. There were some who blithely signed away their souls and all their spare time for three years when they decided to study French. Some of us studied (or said we did) Plane Geometry although it wasn't at all plain. Those who had wandered into Caesar's Gallic Wars struggled with sentences which began, "When Caesar had broken up his winter quarters where he had been all summer long, he took unto him all his slaves and their little baggages which they would not leave because they were possessed with a fondness for them in order to ride on his great steed which wore a ribbon in his hair and gold-plated shoes" . . . and so on into the wee small hours of the night.

Those who thought to become industrial tycoons or marry the office boy began their struggle with that obstinate creature, the typewriter. It was the strangest animal really, for it had ideas all its own on spelling. Remember those peculiar exercises like "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the party" and other such masterpieces of mystery?

Now we could help to carry on the grand old traditions of North as befitted members of the Senior High, among these, the helping to tear down the goal-post after the Quincy game even though that was the year we only tied with them.

Eleventh Grade—Remember? That was the year you discovered what it was to take five majors. Although you worked like a horse on a treadmill, you never accomplished anything. Weren't we relieved to see those one week holidays come around We went out every night in the week, and went skating all day long. Finally we had to go back to school to rest from such a round of debauchery.

For the first time in North's history the Junior class was organized as a separate unit. We elected our own officers and planned our own socials for our own diversion.

But, taken on the whole, we were like the filling in the sandwich, just in between, but soon we would attain the dignity of seniors and could lord it over all that we could survey from our lofty pinnacle.

Twelvth Grade—Remember the night of the Big Wind? Then we had the best excuse on this green earth for not doing our home work, for who could work without light to read by and a telephone to keep in contact with the wizard who knew all the answers? It really didn't matter that the lights came on again fiveminutes later in some parts of the city because teachers couldn't prove anything no matter what they surmised.

At the Record Hop, Swing first entered the sacred portals of NQHS. The old rafters rang to the stomp of the jitterbugs and hep-cats and the "cheep, cheep" of the "Indian Love Call." Heated discussions were held behind the august portals of the Senior Student Council, ranged in dignified state around their ping-pong table, concerning this menace to civilization, but swing withstood the virtuous attaeks of these blue stoekings, and exponents of the jive flourished at the senior class dance.

Reeolleet how any day you went to the studios of the elass photographer you were sure to find seniors waiting to display those dazzling tooth-paste ad smiles for the benefit of a sensitized plate? Some day, when you are old and gray, you will meet an old lady who graduated with you who will eaekle in senile glee, "I have one of your elass pietures; you never thought that those would return to haunt you, did you?" But never mind, she'll only be revenging herself for the time you ditehed her for that dizzy blonde that sat behind you in P. D.

How eould you forget the furor ereated by the diseussions eoneerning what the well-dressed senior would wear to make his grand exit from his Alma Mater? The Rightists and Leftists, Mugwumps and Conservatives were all represented in the various eontending elements in our previously placid puddle. Some held out for the old reliables, blue eoats and white flannels, while others were adamant in their vociferously expressed wish for something new and different. This subjeet was of sueh vast importanee that it really didn't matter that governments were being overthrown, that dietators were celebrating half-eentury birthdays, or that fuel pieketers kept hot in the business of keeping Mr. Average Man eold, for what is as important as what one wears on the most important day of one's life? What revelries Class Day offered when you eould revert to your own true nature and express your personality by sueking a lollipop in Physies, rolling your pants to expose a manly shank, wearing a hair ribbon two feet wide, and indulging in other infantile delights—when everyone piled into a proeession of gaily streamered ears to spend the afternoon pleasure bent, swimming, daneing, and eating loads of goo!

And then with the dawn of Commeneement Day do you remember how the unholy glee with whieh you had looked forward to the time when you would finally quit this vale of tears began to be a bit forced as the aetual hour of parting approached?

"WE'VE COME A LONG WAY TOGETHER"

Way up at the end of the "North" country stood the town of "Thirtinyne." On the outskirts of this thriving community was "Cos-grove" where the inhabitants had had may "Goode" times and in the distance "K-hill" towered. In the opposite direction was the "Greenwood" through which flowed the river along whose "Fairbanks" many "Young" lovers had strolled.

This particular June "Day" was a sad one as the populus was leaving to make way for a new "class" of people. Along "Mainwaring" Street (the most outstanding thoroughfare in the town) the people had gathered in groups. Many of the business places had taken down their signs and had piled them all together. Some in the pile were "Hartbower and Eaton" (a "stationary" firm), "Moody and Hogan Chewing Gum" (they stick together), "Goldberg and Lindberg Market" (hamburg their specialty), "Herstad's How to Break Hearts School," "Sweetser's Sweet Shop" (come in and have a "Cole" drink), "Riddell, Clothier," "Hueneke, Larkin and Bray, Football Equipment," "Gaudreau's Speech for Every Occasion School," "MacLeod and McGrath School of Business," and "DiCarlo's Popularity Club" (ask for "Bob Kenney's Orchestra" and also for "Inez Simmons, vocalist"). "Martell" hurried down the street with the town's history to be left in the library, while "Ewing" and "Pendergast" took care to see that a basketball was packed. Silence fell over the groups as "Mayor Bruce" came among them dressed in black (he had a liking for "Black"). He asked if everything were "Dunn" and as it was, he called "Wain-(w)right" over to help him call the crowd to order. He was going to make a farewell address:

"Just as the 'forty niners' had a 'gold rush,' we, the thirty niners, have had the 'golden' hours 'rush' by in the 'North' country. Even though we are about to depart, our hopes needn't be 'blasted' because we have our 'pick' of many places to settle in and be happy. We have been told 'ore and ore' to let our light so shine that others may benefit by it. The outside world is as a 'mine' that is dark and as 'miners' have lamps on their caps to penetrate this blackness, we, the people of 'Thirtinyne,' have obtained knowledge and help in the 'North' country which will serve as a lamp for us to find our way in the outside world."

He then had "Ball," the town crier, announce to the people that the hour of departure had come. As the community lined up, someone suggested that the "Terrio" twins lead them in a final cheer. After that, the line moved slowly forward. By the church they met "Parsons" who got in place in front of "Driscoll's Honor Society"; "Gene Sprague with her Tri Hi Y Club" was right behind them. All of them were remembering how when times were hard they had wished they could move on to new territory, but now that they had to go they found themselves reluctant. As the mayor had said, they had their choice of places to go and it was up to them to bring honor to "Thirtinyne." Each landmark that they passed brought many memories, and they knew that they would never be able to forget. As they passed up over the hill, out of the "North" country, the last one to be seen was "Hanson" with his "Cain"!

YEAR BOOK STAFF AND MANET

This is the second year in which a yearbook, entirely separate from The Manet has been published. The staff worked industriously under the supervision of Miss Meisner and Mr. Hofferty for many weeks in order to produce a remembrance of high school days of which anyone may well be proud, and naturally feel that the present issue is an improvement over last year's excellent production.

The Manet had only one publication this year, but this was an excellent one. The issue, which was worked on and planned by the staff under the leadership of Miss Meisner, its faculty adviser, and Beulah McLeod, its editor-in-chief, comprise stories, articles, poems, drawings, and, of course, jokes. One of the new features was Campus Chatter, which told of the progress of our graduates. This year, on January 14, the editorial staff attended a Press Conference at Northeastern University.

HONOR SOCIETY

The North Quincy High Chapter of the National Honor Society has completed three years of service to the school. Organized in 1936 the Society, under the guidance of Mr. MacDonald, has exemplified its ideals of scholarship, leadership, character and service in various ways throughout its three years of existence. This year Commendation Cards were issued by the Honor Society to the pupils of the eighth, ninth, tenth, and eleventh grades who had been on the honor or high honor roll for at least one term, this year or last. These cards stressed the importance of outstanding scholarship for eligibility to the Honor Society in the eleventh and twelfth grades. Members of the Society this year, as in past years, served as guides at Parents' Night and also welcomed outside speakers and guests at assemblies, previous to their appearance in the auditorium.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Senior Student Council has long been an active and esteemed part of North's organization. Consisting of twenty-one members, representing each grade of the Senior unit, the Council meets once a week and discusses current school events and offers and receives suggestions for the betterment of our group. Assemblies are planned and carried out through the work of the Council under the capable direction of its advisor, Miss Horrigan.

The Council takes a lively interest in the affairs of the Junior group and each year sponsors the Junior Carnival for these people.

The Council assumes the responsibility of the class elections and also that of choosing the traffic squad.

State conventions are held each year at which delegates from the councils of greater Boston meet and offer suggestions which often prove very helpful. We at North feel the undeniable value and service afforded by our Student Council.

SENIOR GIRLS' CLUB

The Senior Girls Club, sponsored by Miss Crockett, has been carried on with great enthusiasm on the part of all the girls. In addition to the old traditions, many innovations have been instituted.

The usual Christmas and Thanksgiving contributions were conducted by the club, plus a fine Christmas assembly where the girls carried gifts and food to the stage. The girls of the Girls Club also decorated the school at Christmas time with wreaths and holly. Near Christmas, several members of the club went to Mrs. Frye's cripple home in Quincy with an entertainment and gifts for the boys and girls. Flowers and cards were sent to any person who was out sick.

Some of the good-time parties that were held were an outing, a Christmas party, an April Fool's party, an afternoon with the girls from Quincy High School, and two afternoon roller skating parties. The girls also gave a Mothers' Tea with a style show as the entertainment.

In May the Juniors were taken into the club with a very comical iniation. The new members of the Girls Club will hereafter carry on all the work of the Club and resolve to bring the newly initiated girls into a closer bond of friendship which is a vital part of the reason why we have a Girls Club at North Quincy High School.

HI-Y CLUB

The Hi-Y Club under the expert direction and management of Mr. James Hardy, Boys' Secretary of the Quincy Y. M. A. C., is one of the educational and service organizations of North. The Club has rendered helpful assistance in the Thanksgiving and Christmas welfare work and sponsored several instructive and entertaining assemblies. The Club is of outstanding value in helping boys to create in themselves a state of spiritual, mental, and physical well-being, according to true Christian standard. Meetings to transact business matters are held at school; and bi-monthly meetings are held at the Y. M. C. A. in Quincy where games, lectures, or motion pictures are enjoyed. At one of the regular meetings in Quincy's Y. M. C. A., the boys entertained the Tri-Hi-Y with games and refreshments. Both groups enjoyed Miss Crockett's version of Emily Post's etiquette. The boys are planning a banquet for the end of the year, and also hope that a picnic will be possible. The officers this year are Bob Hueneke, President; Bill Cornell, Treasurer; Kenneth Glazebrook; Assistant Treasurer, and Charles Lusteck, Secretary. May the future Hi-Y Clubs succeed in attaining the high standards achieved by our club this year.

TRI-HI-Y

Tri-Hi-Y, the companion organization of Hi-Y, is an active club at North. It has a membership of forty-five girls whose officers for this shcool year have been: Gene Sprague, President; Carolyn Chapman, Vice President; Shirley Wainwright, Secretary; and Inez Simmons, Treasurer. The meetings are held every other week at the Quiney "Y", and the intervening weeks at school. The club owes much of its success to its sponsor, Mr. James Hardy, and the assistant adviser, Miss Ruth Stevens. The program for the past year has been full and varied. Many interesting speakers addressed the girls at several of their meetings at the "Y". Among them were Dr. Helen McGillieuddy of the Massachusetts Department of Social Hygiene; Mr. John Lehman, Secretary of the "Y" organizations in Massachusetts and Rhode Island; Miss Maude Howes, and Rev. V. V. Sawyer. The girls greatly enjoyed a joint meeting with the newly-formed Tri-Hi-Y of Quincy High.

In order to aid the Senior Class in its efforts to procure a suitable site for its Class Day, Presidents Gene Sprague and Robert Hueneke formed a committee, composed of Betty Dunn, Priscilla Matthews, Philip Ewing, and Raymond Halperin. As a result of this committee's investigation the class voted to go to the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth. Thus these two groups rendered a real service to their class.

SENIOR PLAY

On December 9, 1938, the Class of 1939 presented Your Uncle Dudley, a comedy, under the direction of John Hofferty. The cast was as follows:

Mabel Dixon Church	Inez Simmons
Ethelyn Church	Marie Bergeron
Janet Dixon	Audrey O'Neill
Cyril Church	William Whipple
Dudley Dixon	Andrew Randall
Christine Sederholm	Josephine Hibbard
Charlie Post	William Cowley
Robert Kirby	Joseph Gaudreau

Despite a conversational first act, the actors gathered force as the play progressed, and brought it to a successful finish. The nature of the play was such that no one player stood out, but each individual performance was of excellent caliber. Andrew Randall in the title role of a young bachelor of forty undergoing his first love affair and Josephine Hibbard as the sincere and intelligent Danish girl, Marie Bergeron as the ingenue, and Joseph Gaudreau as the family young American, played their parts with understanding. William Cowley and Audrey O'Neill as the family friend and the rollicking old lady who saves the day for her children were amusing and believable. William Whipple, of the tenth grade, added another well-played "kid brother" role to his repertoire. Inez Simmons deserves especial commendation for her portraying of an unpleasant character with no attempt to gain the sympathy of the audience. Capable direction united these performances into a very entertaining production and continued the high quality of the North Senior Class Plays.

GLEE CLUB

Glee Clubs may come and Glee Clubs may go, but never will there be one quite as full of pep, volume, and quality as the 1938–39 club at North. Members meet each Tuesday afternoon where they spend a beneficial hour practicing under Miss Christman's capable direction. The Glee Club has assisted at several assemblies and a special program was broadcast from the music room at Thanksgiving and Christmas time. The A capella group of the Club has given several extra programs and those people participating enjoyed their work immensely. The Glee Club concert, presented in cooperation with the senior orchestra, proved highly successful showing the results of the diligent work done throughout the year by this group.

SENIOR BAND

The North Quincy High School Band, under the direction of Miss Ruth Christman, has done much to aid in stimulating school spirit and encouraging the participants in the different scholastic sports on to victory. As well as being present at all the football games and many other activities, the Band put on a very successful annual concert of its own. For the first time in the history of the school the Band has been placed in class A which means that the enrollment is more than 1,000 pupils. In this class the pieces which they are expected to play are more difficult than in class B. This organization participated in the annual State Festival held in Belmont, Mass., and the New England Festival heldin Worcester, Mass. The Band has also been requested to play at several outside activities.

SENIOR ORCHESTRA AND STRING ENSEMBLE

The North Quincy High School Orchestra with Miss Ruth Christman directing has completed a very successful year. Instead of accompanying the Glee Club in their annual operetta, this year the orchestra held a concert in conjunction with the Glee Club. It is the first time that an activity of the sort has been attempted. The orchestra also participated in the annual State and New England Music Festivals along with the other musicial organizations in the school. Because of the larger enrollment of the school, this organization has been placed in Class A in which they are expected to play more difficult selections than formerly. They have also played at some of the assemblies.

The String Ensemble under the direction of Miss Dorothy Beesley has added much to the entertainment of the school. This organization, made up of six violins, one viola, two cellos, and accompanying piano, played at many of the assemblies. The ensemble also completed the program of the Senior Class Play. Other activities in which the ensemble took part were the Parent Teachers' Night at Bethany Congregational Church, a Silver Tea at the Montclair Parent Teachers' Association, and the Annual Meeting and Style Show of the Atlantic Congregational Church Women's Union.

LIBRARY STAFF

This year as well as every other year the Library Staff has been carrying on its duties, so that the students of North may easily find the books they desire. The services of the girls are invaluable. They keep the books in order, help find books, and give any information they can. In addition to their regular work the girls have parties. This year, early in the fall, the staff had its first get-together. During the games the girls were able to get acquainted with one another. This was followed by a Christmas party in December. For the second time the whole staff met at a social function to play games and for refreshments.

The Staff had its first mothers' tea this year. It has set a precedent for future members. All the girls brought their mothers so that they might meet Miss Sherman and the other mothers. Everyone had a grand time and hoped that there would be another one next year.

PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB

The Photography Club, sponsored by Mr. French, is a group of amateur photographers.

The club officers are: Robert S. Kenny, President; Milton White, Vice President; Bryce Loughmiller, Secretary; Priscilla Anderson, Treasurer.

Weekly meetings are held at which photographic practice and principles of composition are informally discussed by the members. The club held its annual salon in March; the winners in the various classes were: Portrait—Milton White; Still Life—Wallace Patstone; Pictorial—Milton White; Contact—John Brown.

CAFETERIA SQUAD

Again this year, the Cafeteria Squad is to be given a small party for the splendid work they have done this year in keeping the cafeteria orderly and clean. For some time Mr. MacDonald, the advisor, has been worried about the narrowness of the aisles and this year, in February, the cafeteria tables have been moved to give the maximum amount of room for the groups. There has been a decided improvement on the part of the groups; according to the faculty it has been due to the numerous assemblies and dissertations given to us by teachers, pupils, and visitors, on courtesy. Already the faculty have been observing the pupils in their classes in order to recommend those who, in their opinion, would make the best cafeteria officers.

TRAFFIC SQUAD

The Traffic Squad, for the past year, has endeavored to correct certain faults in the corridors and has sueceeded remarkably well. The aim of the squad this year, as set forth by Mr. MacDonald, was to teach the pupils to "do unto others," and to teach them the idea of courtesy in the corridors. The year has been quite free from such restrictions as silent passing, except in a few instances and Mr. MacDonald often commented on the great improvement effected by the squad. As usual, the squad was picked by a group of teachers, headed by Miss Coyle and Mr. MacDonald, who chose the outstanding pupils from each grade and it seemed as though each choice had been justified.

GROUNDS PATROL

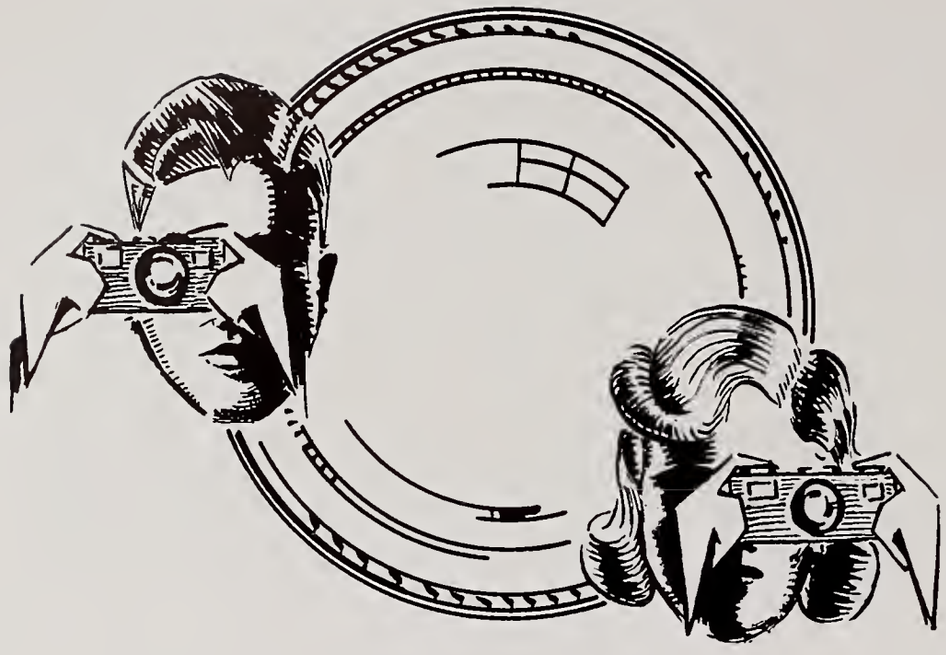
This very efficient group, supervised by Mr. Sylvia, sees that North's surrounding lawns, shrubs, and sidewalks are given the proper consideration by the pupils. At lunch hours the Ground Patrollers see that no games are played which might result in injuries to the players.

Outsiders see our school as a better, finer school because of the work of the Grounds Patrol in improving North's property. Cooperation by the pupils is of real necessity if the work of the Grounds Patrol is to be effective.

REPORTERS

The Reporters Staff of North, organized last year, has taken many steps forward in its second year of existence. Under Mr. Foy's supervision this group has reported on every activity at North, and has produced some excellent feature writings, interviews, and so forth. Once a week the reports have been published in the Quincy Patriot Ledger under the heading "News from North." This year the staff was organized into various departments covering particular fields of activities.

Marion Mainwaring headed the reporting staff of 1939 as editor-in-chief with representatives from all grades working under her. Next year this very active group will undoubtedly continue with the success its first two years have shown.



FOOTBALL

After getting off to an auspicious start by beating Milton 7–0, our Football Team went on to complete a very good season by outplaying every opponent except one, winning five, losing three, and tying one game. Long passes and long runs proved fatal to the team because for the most part, all our losses and the one tie came as a result of these two things. Our only real disappointment came on Thanksgiving Day, when Quincy beat us for the first time in the history of the grid rivalry between the two schools.

North was really a second half team this year, for, after playing mediocre ball for the first half, our charges would come back and play dazzling football for the next half.

Graduation will take a large toll this year, as ten of the eleven boys who started the Quincy game are graduating along with many others. Don Johnson, who proved to be a very able play-caller; Bill Moody, who passed, kicked, ran, and blocked; Joe Larkin, a powerhouse at full-back; and George Hurley, a very good runner, made up the backfield this year along with Bob Hueneke, who filled in for Joe Larkin. "Larry Kelley" Bray, co-Captain of the All-South Shore team, and "Smokey" Bruce who alternated with Tom Underwood, were the flankmen. Joe Quinn, Bob Day, and Thor Herstad all did their jobs well at tackle. Bill Jennings, the fast little guard and big Bill Hanson, the only All-Scholastic player North has ever had, and who could run with the ball as well as he could make holes in the enemy line, made a great frontal wall.

Jim Young did his job well at center, both offensively and defensively. Vin Larkin, Russ Regan, John Rooney, Gus Guivens, Cliff Nilly and Mal Stewart all proved themselves able when needed to replace others.

CROSS-COUNTRY

The Cross-Country Team from North had a very successful season this year, winning five, losing one, and tying one meet. The only defeat came at the hands of Braintree by a very close score, and the tie was with Quincy. Among the victims were Weymouth, Milton, Sandwich, and Chelsea. The boys placed sixth in the State Meet held at Boston University this year, and they placed seventh in the New England Interscholastic Cross-Country Meet held at Providence, R.I.

Among the eight boys who received letters, there are six seniors, thus leaving the burden on two juniors, Byron Isbell, and Charles Perkins. Jack Terrio and his brother Lawrence continued to be ahead of the crowd again this year, with Charles Perkins and Byron Isbell doing some fine running, and sometimes beating the twins. Norman Hurd and Captain Russ Hardy nearly always figured in the scoring, and were all important in winning meets. Although Charles Crowell and Edward Moody were never first, they always managed to be well up in line, so as to place.

Much credit should be given to the Coaches, Mr. Alexander, Stan Mellish, and Warren Goodie who aided greatly in the success of the team.

BASKETBALL

Our Tech Tourney Basketball Team enjoyed the best season that any team from North has had in many years. They won eleven and lost two in the regular season, while they lost to Somerville in the Tech Tourney. North was undefeated up to the first Quincy game, which, of course, the boys should have won, and would have if a fellow by the name of Fred Di Santis had not slipped in a basket with a few seconds to go, thus giving Quincy a 16–15 verdict. On the whole North coasted through the season, but the two games with Quincy, and one with Attleboro were far from easy going. As we know, Quincy won both games, but the Granite Chips knew that they had played a tough game when they were through. Tom Underwood should receive the thanks for the win over Attleboro as he flipped in a basket in the sudden death period to win the game.

"Scratch" McCutcheon, Captain Joe Driscoll, Wally Pendergast, Eddie King, Phil Ewing, Tom Underwood, Don Johnson, Don Dowling, Jim Young, Monk MacPartlin, Frank Hawco, and Ken Simpson are the boys who helped North get an invitation to the Tech Tourney.

Although nine out of the twelve boys mentioned are graduating, John Mullarky's hopes are fairly bright for a good team next year, as he has many promising Juniors and Sophomores.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

In addition to a top-ranking boys' basketball team North should be proud of its speedy girls' team.

Under the leadership of Miss Perkins the girls have been praetieing since December. A large number of girls have played every Monday and finally ten girls were chosen from each grade to form a team. The team did a fine job in defeating the Alumni team which includes Mary Pratt, Marjory Plumb, and other polished players.

Sarah DiCarlo, who was a forward, and Mildred Parsons and Priseilla Matthews, who were guards on last year's team, have been tops again this year.

North should have a suceessful team next year with Justine Tonry, Marian Patstone, and Marion Leary returning.

WRESTLING

Although the Wrestling Team did not win the State Wrestling Championship in either class A or class B, they had a highly successful season. They won two and lost four, but the win, loss average doesn't mean a thing to North this year, because they know that two of these meets were lost by but one point, and the others by a very close score. The team split even with Quincy, Needham, and Weymouth. North tied for second in the State Wrestling Championship in class A, and placed last in class B.

Mr. Forrest has done a lot for the wrestling team, and has helped make some fine wrestlers.

Austin (Honey) Norton wrestled very successfully in the 100-pound class and will be one of North's standouts next year. Dave Brown, who was the only one to annex a State Class A championship, Roy Cavicchi, Al Smith, Art Connors, Charlie Perkins, Don Johnson, Dick Knowles, Bill Cornell, Phil Assmus, and Seden Nickerson, are the boys who were the mainstays for North during the past season.

As North has but two regulars, "Honey" Norton and Phil Assmus, returning, the outlook does not look so bright; however, there are many promising young wrestlers coming up from the 10th and 11th grades.

TRACK

Although the weather has greatly hampered our Track team this year, the prospects of a good team are very promising. After beating Quincy in a practice meet, North came through to win its first official meet against Needham by a very large score.

As a result of graduation last year, North lost some very valuable runners; however, there are many promising boys who have come up from the 9th, 10th, and 11th grades of last year. Tom Underwood, Bill Hanson, Russ Hardy, John Duggan, Bob Day, John Rooney, John Terrio, Lawrence Terrio, Leonard Marsden, Scratch McCutcheon, Charlie Belliveau, Bob Goodoak and Bob Deneen are some of the veterans who are expected to garner points for the North Quincy aggregation this year.

The Sophomore trio of Hutt, Hibbard, and Clarke should be very handy when needed to bolster up the score.

At first it was thought that North would be weak in the jumps, but Bill Hanson, Scratch McCutcheon, and Don Dowling have already proved their worth in the high jump, as have Charlie Belliveau and Leonard Marsden in the broad jump.

The distance runs seem to be the weak spot with only two veterans returning in the half mile and mile, the Terrio twins. The dashes are quite strong with Underwood leading the field, and Bob Deneen, John Duggan, Charlie Belliveau, Bill Hanson, Leonard Marsden and the Sophomore trio proving to be very important. With a team as strong as this, the future should look very bright for coach Don West.

BASEBALL

An unusually large turnout of veteran material seems to predict an excellent season for our diamond warriors. Some of the experienced members of the squad returning from last year are Moody, Cobban, Meyer, Driscoll, Smith, Regan, Bray, Ryan, Johnson, Herstadt, Fraser, Manning, Finney, and Hanly. Also there is a group of sophomore battery men who have shown promise—J. Swindler, Smith, Martinson, Leonard, and E. Swindler. Some of the other promising rookies are Thomas, Andrews, Gardiner, and Anderson. Because of the inclemency of the weather and also the lack of a practice field, the squad had only three outdoor practice sessions before the first game.

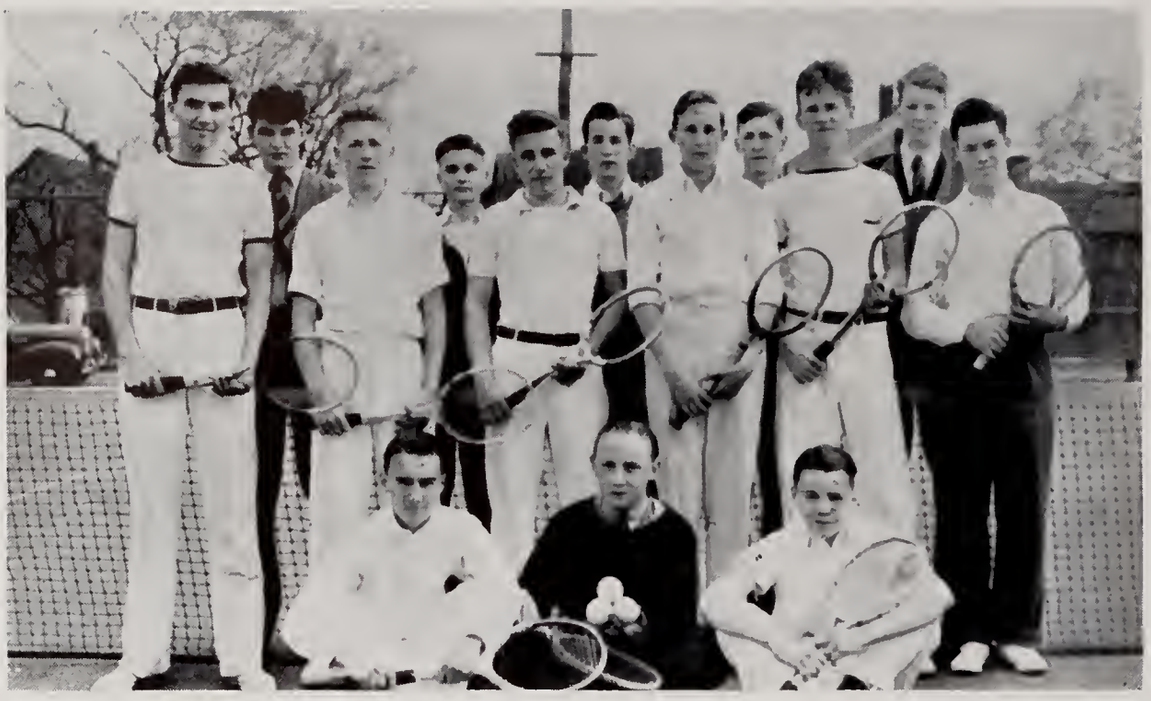
This year North has one of the heaviest baseball schedules that the team has had in years—playing sixteen games. There are three new teams on the schedule for this year—Medford, Watertown and Braintree. Mr. Forrest, capable mentor of the squad, believes that because of the amount of veteran material, North should expect to have better than a fair season, despite the fact that three of the teams on the schedule are rated as class A teams. Best of luck to all the boys.

CHEERLEADERS

Returning to North after a hectic summer, Mr. West, our creator of great track teams, and Mr. Forrest, our builder of first-class baseball teams, issued the customary notice announcing tryouts for cheerleaders. Upon venturing into the gym at the appointed hour, our two judges were overwhelmed by over sixty enthusiastic young ladies and five eager and bashful young men. A week later the survivors were nine girls and five boys, ready and eager to lead in cheering loyal cohorts of North Quincy.

Many tedious and long rehearsals were the order of the day and under the critical eye of Mr. Forrest, North's peppy team took shape. From the first game to the last this inspiring group added much color to the games and gave whole-hearted encouragement to our teams. Our model cheering squad participated in many rallies for the football squad and appeared at the dedication of the new stadium at Quincy. After a brief rest when the football season was over, the cheerleaders gave support to our great Tech-Tourney basketball team. Offering their support to the Band in its concert, our cheerleaders ushered and sold candy.

Congratulations are due the members of this group for their commendable work.



TENNIS

The North High tennis team, starting its second year, faces a very difficult 16-match schedule. The opposition includes Haverhill, Norwood, Weymouth, Needham, Brockton, Braintree, Milton and Quincy. Coach Joseph G. Foy feels hopeful that the team, paced by the 1938 South Shore Interscholastic Doubles Champions, Charlie Watkins and Johnnie O'Connell, will stroke its way to a high place in the athletic sun. Eddie Carpenter, who at times played brilliantly last year, Bob Laing, with much more experience than last year, Bud O'Connell, a "Bitsy" Grant type, and Art Jackson, surprise of the newcomers, are fighting hard to clinch regular berths. Other candidates and potential racquet-wielders on the 1939 North array are Don Blatt, Russ Hirtle, Len Purpora, Dave Brown, John Verity, Art Sorenson, Stan Crowell, Bill Sweeney, D. Young, J. Gerry, C. Gill, W. Whipple, J. Cruckshank, J. Childerhouse, and K. Drinkwater. The manager is Laban Whitaker.

RIDING CLUB

Another sport sponsored at North is a Riding Club. This activity was started several years ago by Miss Perkins, and has been supported enthusiastically by about twenty girls. In the fall, Ferguson's Riding Academy had a gymkhana. The girls, on horseback had a balloon battle, played "Going to Jerusalem." A contest for expertness in horsewomanship was held and the day was completed with a weenie roast over an open fire. Although this Club rides only in the fall and spring, the members eagerly welcome an opportunity such as this to enjoy an otherwise unsecurable sport.

ARCHERY

For the past two years Archery has found many enthusiastic supporters among the senior girls at North. Practice both outdoors and in has been skillfully and successfully carried on, and Mr. Clark has capably instructed the girls in the art of keen shooting. Through the efforts of Mr. Clark, two new targets were secured last fall which enable more girls to shoot at end. Archery is a sport that offers girls beneficial, enjoyable exercise. Participation affords the opportunity to engage in thrilling competition with a worthwhile objective. In future years it is the hope of Mr. Clark that the girls will be able to organize a team to shoot with freshmen teams of some of the colleges in this vicinity. Any who have seen the North girls shoot know that there is a great deal of skill in the group.

GOLF TEAM

The North Quincy High golf team, comprised of an almost all-veteran aggregation, are confident of having a successful season. The team finished in second place in the "Norfolk County League" last year, and the ultimate aim of the boys this year is to win the championship of the league and obtain the coveted cup. This trophy, which has been won two times in the past, will become the permanent possession of North if it is won by the team once more. The golfers this year are led by co-captains, Coleman King and Francis Feeney, and are coached as usual by Mr. Donahue. The remaining letter men are Russel Tyler, Dick Spaulding, and Roy Jeffry. The one position open should be ably filled by Robert Drohan who saw some action last year; however, he will find ample competition from Carl Ross, Bill Zottoli and James McPartlin, who are all good golfers. So, regardless of the strong opposition they will meet, the golf team should have a highly successful season.

RIFLE TEAM

The Rifle Team is an organization of about forty boys under the sponsorship of Mr. Rogers. The officers are as follows: President, Charles Ford; Vice President, Donald Blatt; Secretary, Norman de Champlain; Treasurer, Bigelow Fuller; Range Officers, Bernard Collins, Theodore Raimey. During the winter season the members shoot in the Quincy Armory. Since the organization is chartered by the National Rifle Society, the members plan to obtain government rifles for next year.

BOWLING CLUB

This year's Bowling Club started its season with a grand turnout of about 225 bowlers who were to bowl alternately on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, with Mr. Sylvia in charge. Because of an accident Mr. Sylvia was out of school for several months. During this time, Miss Reilly, Miss Perkins and Mr. Rogers took charge of the club's activities and did a fine job. Because of conflicting activities the membership began to dwindle and by mutual consent it was decided to suspend bowling until next fall.

SWIMMING CLUB

This year the North Swimming Club had only four members: Eudora Moore, Virginia Fowler, Miriam Daiteh, and Phyllis Favorite. Because there were so few members, the girls joined the Life Saving Class at the Y. W. C. A. Eudora Moore and Virginia Fowler won Life Saving badges. Miss Sherman hopes that next year more girls will turn out for this Club. She would like a Club that would be large enough to be a separate unit. Swimming in winter has a charm and novelty that no other sport possesses. And swimming in a pool is even more fun.

JUNIOR ORCHESTRA

The Junior Orchestra, organized and directed by Miss Beesley has proven itself a great addition to our school unit. Rehearsals have been held each week at which the members have worked faithfully as is proven by the good results. The people who play in the orchestra gain valuable experience, for it shows them the vast importance of perfect cooperation. The orchestra has assisted at several assemblies throughout the year and its performances have been greatly appreciated. On May 13 the Junior High Orchestra represented the school at the Eastern Massachusetts Music festival in Belmont. At this festival the orchestra made a very fine showing. When these people graduate into the senior orchestra they will be well prepared to take their places in this group.

JUNIOR STUDENT COUNCIL

The Junior Student Council is an organization composed of the presidents of the thirty-three Junior High home rooms. It holds weekly meetings under the guidance of Miss Howlett, and has been of real service to the school throughout the past year. Two Junior High assemblies were arranged through the efforts of the Council—one athletic assembly held for the Junior High football and soccer teams, and a Christmas Giving assembly, which was exceptionally well carried out. The group also sponsored a Junior Frolic and moving picture show, the proceeds of which were used in the purchase of a piano for dances in the gym and other social activities. A study of traffic conditions with noticeable results has been made by the Council, and their season was climaxed by the annual Junior Carnival.
